

UBC's Got Talent

Rules and Regulations

UBC's Got Talent is open to all children and youth between the ages of 10 and 18 (as of December 31, 2023), and are UBC campus residents (UNA and Acadia Park), as well as residents of the University Endowment Lands. If a group is entering, at least 50% of the members be residents of the areas outlined above.

UBC's Got Talent will be held at the Chan Centre for the Performing Arts on Sunday, February 19th, 2023 from 3 to 4pm, as part of the Kids Take Over UBC. All contestants entering the talent show must be willing to perform in the live show if selected.

How to enter:

1. Preliminary Audition:

- Create a video showcasing your talent: singing, dancing, magic, or any other creative talents. Only one entry per contestant group will be allowed. The judging panel for preliminary auditions will select up to 15 contestants for live, final performance at the Chan Centre for the Performing Arts on Sunday, February 19, 2022 at 3pm.
- Submit an online registration form including the uploaded audition video by no later than 11:59pm on January 10, 2023.
- Guidelines for filming:
 - Camera orientation: film using a phone horizontally (landscape mode).
 - Video quality: film on the highest HD setting your phone provides.
 - Contestants are asked to state their name, and age before beginning their recording.
 - Video performance – no longer than two minutes.

2. Final Live Show at the Chan Centre

- The selected contestants will be notified by January 16, 2023 and will perform live at the Chan Centre for the Performing Arts on Sunday, February 19th, 2023 in front of a panel of judges and live audience. Contestants will be adjudicated on their overall performance, audience response, originality, personality, and stage presence.
- Prizes:
 - Top Award: $300 cash prize and three pairs of tickets to any shows/concerts presented by the Chan Centre within the next two years.
 - People's Choice Award: $200 Cash Prize and three pairs of tickets to any shows/concerts presented by the Chan Centre within the next two years.

For any questions, please contact Grace Wood, Business Development Manager, Chan Centre for the Performing Arts at grace.wood@ubc.ca.